A. Purpose

1. To establish a philosophy that will facilitate open discussion and dialog in the College.

2. The College best serves its community as an open intellectual forum where varying shades of opinion may be freely expressed and fairly debated.

3. The College functions efficiently only if its students, staff, and faculty have a right to discuss, debate, and agree or disagree constructively.

4. The College seeks to enlist a faculty who adhere to high standards of professional conduct, who are specialists in the various subject matter areas, and who are fair and constructive in presenting ideas and issues to the students.

5. The College encourages outside speakers representing diverse points of view. It also reserves the right to assure the opportunity for students to hear opposing sides of a question.
